Colour intensity genetic testing

Two stages in testing for AAA members to get involved providing an opportunity for early uptake of the new technology and a quick return for members given the AAA's investment. Curtin University is yet to extend the testing to other base colours from black. Neogen to replicate what is being done by Curtin University to ensure it works commercially.

AAA could deter the commercial availability of the new research if it proceeded with patent rights and attributing a value to the IP. Limited financial benefit evident for the AAA withholding this IP, relative to industry gains.
